BETHLEHEM WORKERS IGNORE FOSTER

LESS THAN QUARTER OF
MEN FAIL TO GO TO WORKREPORTS ALSO INDICATE INCREASE IN
MAN POWER AT PLANTS IN THE
PITTSBURGH DISTRICT

DEADLOCK IS STILL APPARENT

STEELTON, Sept. 29.—Hundreds of workers of the Bethlehem Steel company plant were reported to have gone to work at the plant this morning. They reported to work in the face of the strike order issued by Secretary Foster of the Steel Workers committee.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—Dawn of the second week of the steel strike brought what operators and labor leaders termed the crisis in the gigantic industrial struggle. Both sides were marshaling their forces for the crucial moment.

Early reports from the mills in the steel city district indicated a favorable increase in man power.

The Jones & Laughlin office reported that the fourth attempt to call out the men had been a psychological mistake and that the men returned to work as usual—100 per cent. Less pickets were on the streets this morning than at any time during the strike.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 29.—Approximately 15 per cent. of the employes of the Bethlehem Steel Company at South Bethlehem failed to report to work this morning, it is estimated by police authorities. There was no disorder.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.—According to officials of the Bethlehem Steel plant at Sparrow's Point only a few men walked out. A vote taken yesterday showed only a few in favor of the strike. The men have been working on half time recently.

TITUSVILLE, Sept. 29.—The local plant of the Bethlehem Steel company continued operation today. Officials said that scarcely a man had answered the strike call set for today.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Steel plants in Chicago today claimed that all the men returned to work today despite the strike order. Union leaders, however, claimed the situation was still effective and that only a few men were returning to work. John Fitzpatrick steel leader who returned to Chicago from the Pittsburgh district, said, "I see by the papers that there is nothing to do now but have a good undertaker bury the strike."

BUFFALO, Sept. 29.—The Lackawanna Steel company plant resumed operation today following a week's shut down. Six hundred men returned to work on the first shift. There was no disorder.

PUNISHMENT NOT HALF
SEVERE ENOUGH

Ed. Hallman, Charles Schreck, David Pearce and Henry Long were fined $10 each and costs by Squire W. W. McQuown at Mahaffey Friday following pleas of guilty entered by the men to a charge of inhuman treatment of a cow. The men were part of a section crew on the P. R. R. out of McGee's Mills and on September 5th last when a cow belonging to Thomas Koshivny, of Clover Run, suffering for three days before she ran ahead of the hand car on which they were riding, they chased her along the track for half a mile. The excited cow ran along the track and every time she lagged the hand car would blimp her and start her running wildly again. Finally in attempting to escape by crossing the track ahead of the car she was struck, knocked down and suffered a broken leg. The injured animal was hauled from the track and tumbled down over the bank and left lying there for three days before she was found and humanely put to death.

ILLNESS OF PRESIDENT WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH
LABOR-CAPITAL CONFERENCE SCHEDULED OCT. 6TH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—President Wilson had a restless night but is sleeping this morning, a bulletin issued by Dr. Grayson, the President's physician said today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The round table industrial conference set for October 6th, will meet despite the illness of President Wilson, it was said at the White House today. The President, however, will probably be unable to take any part in the session.

It was also definitely announced today that the King and Queen of Belgium will tour the country before coming to Washington to be guests at the White House.

DUBOIS YOUNG MAN KILLS HIS WIFE AND SELF

Domestic Strife Cause of Rash
Act of Geo. Ledger, Employee of Shaft No. 2

PAIR LEAVE CHILD ORPHAN

DuBois, Sept. 29.—As the result of a jealous rage that swept over George Ledger yesterday afternoon he first shot and killed his wife, Bessie Ledger, and then killed himself. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ledger died within a few moments of each other. The scene of the double killing was at the Ledger home on the road just beyond the B. and S. crossing. The event immediately preceding the killing and just what was the immediate cause will probably never be known, as the two were in the rear of the house at the time the trouble started and both were so mortally wounded that they could make no statement before dying. Coroner J. I. Pollum, who investigated the circumstances in connection with the unfortunate affair, refused to talk for publication, stating he would not give any of the "inside" facts. It is not known that there are any "inside" facts, but the two were alleged to have had some domestic infelicity during the past several months and had not been living together a part of the time. But yesterday it is stated that the two were together and that they had been down town together. They returned home and went inside, Jake Cousins, a well known citizen of that section and father of the girl, together with a sister of the girl being seated on the front porch.

Alex Stewart, who had his baby out for a walk, was passing directly in front of the Cousins home at the time of the tragedy. He stated that he had just spoken to Mr. Cousins, seated on the porch, when he heard three shots from the rear of the house. He heard a woman scream and saw Mrs. Ledger staggering in the hall. At the same time Mr. Ledger came running from the rear of the house, clutching in his hand a revolver. Mr. Stewart, fearing that the baby might get hurt, retreated a short distance down the road towards the crossing. He saw Ledger cross the road and go up the bank for-

JORDON GUILTY
JURY FINDS

The jury returned a verdict of guilty in the case against Messrs. Garman, Young and Thurston, supervisors of Jordan township on Saturday evening last. In this case the Supervisors were proceeded against criminally for maintaining a nuisance in the condition of the road into McCarty from Knox township. It was the first case of the kind tried in the Clearfield county courts and the verdict of the jury means that no longer shall the township supervisor run road affairs in his township like the Kaiser of Germany used to handle things in his former dominions.

We are not familiar with the situation in Jordan, so must take the jury's verdict in that case but we are personally acquainted with several sections where the supervisors should not only be convicted but sent to jail as well for the kind of roads they are allowing to exist in their bailiwicks without making any effort to remedy or repair same.

The Jordan township case grew out of the breaking of a spring on an automobile owned by Eli Bloom of Knox township, when the machine dropped into a hole in the road near McCarty. A civil suit for damages will now no doubt be instituted against the township.

AUTO AND WAGON COLLIDE

Frank Conklin's auto and a wagon load of brick, being driven by Harry Zimmerman disputed the right of way into the Second street bridge this morning. The machine was pretty badly used up while the traffic was blocked for about five minutes, but fortunately the drivers of the vehicles escaped injury.

STOCKS HIGH

NEW YORK—Leading issues were high at the stock market opening today. United States Steel, however, was off 1-2 at 106 and Bethlehem B. off at 102. Crucible opened at 218 up 3, Studebaker at 120 1-2 up 3-4, Baldwin 136 up 1-8, and Pan American Petroleum at 118 off 1-2.

TWO KILLED AND COURT
HOUSE BURNED BY MOB
AT OMAHA, NEBRASKAMAYOR UPHOLDING LAW, IS HANGED BUT
CUT DOWN BARELY IN TIME TO
SAVE HIM FROM DEATH

MARTIAL LAW RESTORES ORDER

OMAHA, NEB., Sept. 29.—Mob rule held steady old Omaha in its grasp yesterday. An infuriated mob sought a negro, identified as the assailant of a white girl.

Martial law was declared in Omaha today. Five thousand soldiers patrolled the streets. Mounted police patrolled in the vicinity of the court house and in the negro district and the situation appeared under the control of the soldiers.

The summary of results of 16 hours of riot rule in Omaha follows: Wm. Brown, negro, identified by Agnes Loebach, age 19, as the man who assaulted her; lynched and his body burned.

Samuel Clapcy shot and killed and 56 others injured. Mayor Edward P. Smith in a serious condition at the hospital suffering from injuries inflicted by the mob.

Douglas County Court House newly built at a cost of $1,500,000 in ruins from fire.

The mayor narrowly escaped the fate of the negro whom he defended from the mob. His last words muttered when nearly unconscious from beating were: "I will give my life if necessary but I will not surrender the negro. I am going to enforce the law." The Mayor was saved by having the rope which was around his neck cut when he was being lifted from the ground. The Mayor was rushed to the hospital in a passing automobile. Physicians said this morning his condition was critical.

From 6 o'clock last evening until this morning great crowds thronged the streets; men, women and children crowded around the court house went wild. Pawn shops and hardware stores were looted to obtain fire arms and ammunition.

Every policeman on the street was overpowered, their clubs were taken from them and many were seriously beaten.

Sheriff Mitchell Clark and two deputies held the crowd at bay until the court house began burning. They extinguished the fire which the mob started on the first floor but the mob soon obtained more gasoline and flames were soon seen bursting from the second and third story floors as the crowd howled with glee. The jail is on the first floor and Sheriff Clark took his prisoners to the roof in an effort to save him. Nearly 100 other prisoners begged the Sheriff to surrender the negro in order that they might be saved. The sheriff refused.

HEISEYS TANK CORP
MOWS DOWN ELK
COUNTY ELEVEN

The 1919 football season at Clearfield High was opened Saturday in a game with the team representing Johnsonburg High school in the presence of one of the largest opening day crowds in the past several seasons.

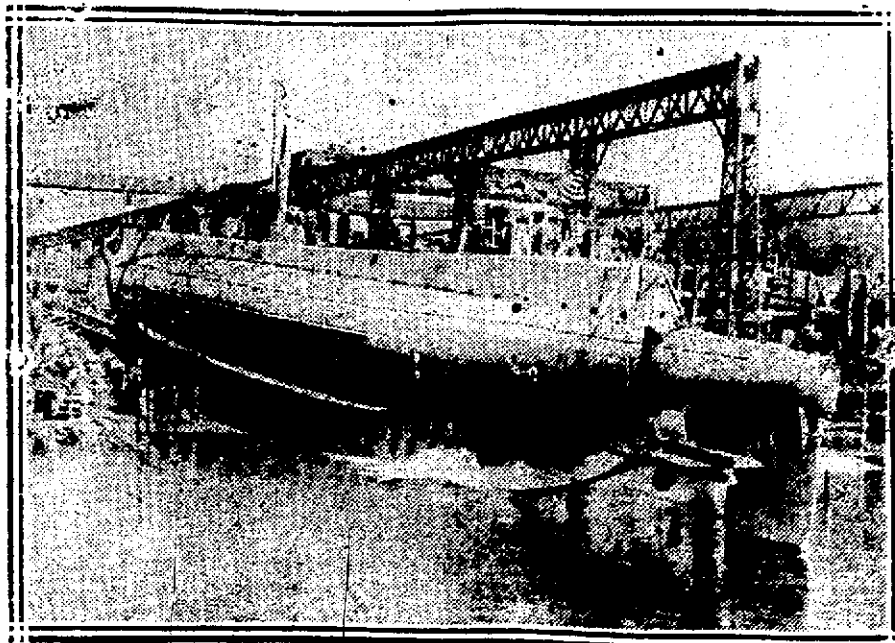

Coach Heisey had his machine working like a Ford, and like the Ford it trundled any place the captain desired it to go and this, too, without asking permission of the husky sons of little Elk.

The visitors were sure up against the real thing as the score seems to indicate the final count Clearfield, 47; Johnsonburg, 0.

The line-up follows:

Johnsonburg	Curley	FB	Clearfield	Butler	FB
Holland	LH	Cox	son of Sandy Ridge, spent the week-end at the home of George Gulich on Walnut street.
Davies, A.	RH	Bowen	Philip Reed, of South Second street, will be hostess.
Stine	QB	Flanagan	A little play will be given and a collection taken for the support of the club's French orphan. A good attendance is hoped for. 529-3cn.

THE OMAHA AFFAIR

Mob violence does not make the role of the criminal more bitter; neither has it been proven that lynching deters the hand of the criminal. That no punishment is severe enough for such a brute in this case is conceded. On the other hand what satisfaction can the people of Omaha have in the knowledge that they have allowed their passions to run riot, have killed an officer sworn to uphold the law and protect the lives of its citizens and permitted a few hoodlums in the crowd to burn to ashes their new county building.

All of the affair is the most ignorant and imbecile folly. The motives for the uncalculated occurrence are not yet explained and probably never will be. As a rule the men who take part in these lynching parties are forever ashamed of themselves.

Their treatment of the Mayor and the burning of their own building is beyond understanding. It is just possible, and highly probable, that the men who applied the torch to the public building were of that class who grasp at every opportunity to wreck property. The mob offered a good cover under which they possibly practiced the tenets of their cult.

SPROUL'S ANSWER TO FOSTER

Governor Sproul's telegram to strike leader Foster, writer of anarchistic doctrines, is worthy of the closest reading by all good Americans. It is also an answer to Foster's vicious tirade against the maintenance of law and order by the State Police.

"Your telegram complaining of the action of a squad of our state police in dispersing a crowd at North Clairton has received my attention. My information is that the people were ordered to move in accordance with a proclamation by the sheriff forbidding public gatherings, that the police did not approach the crowd until their commands had been defied and that nobody was hurt until shots had been fired and stones and other missiles had been thrown at the officers. Experience has shown that it is dangerous to permit the congregation of large numbers of the people during times of stress and excitement and the sheriff, as the official charged with the maintenance of law and order, was acting for the public welfare in forbidding the gatherings and in enforcing his decrees. In carrying out this policy the sheriffs of all of the counties will have the full assistance of the state.

"Permit me to take this opportunity of saying to you that in the situation which now exists, when lawlessness and disorder have compelled the intervention of the state to aid the local authorities to maintain the peace, when every good citizen's attitude should be that of upholding the law and counseling and aiding in the maintenance of order, I shall expect your full co-operation in helping us to see that the laws of the commonwealth are observed and its peace preserved.

"Reports have reached me that many agitators, hostile alike to our institutions of government and to the organization which you represent, have taken advantage of the disturbed conditions to come into Pennsylvania to spread wicked propaganda and to endeavor to incite the ignorant and the vicious to riot and pillage. These persons are enemies of the state and our endeavor is being given to their apprehension and punishment under our laws.

"Information has come to us that efforts are being made by dangerous and evil-disposed persons at points in other states near our boundaries to collect armed mobs to come across the state line to overpower our municipal authorities and to attack our citizens and destroy their property. If any such attempts are made we shall be compelled to regard these mobs as armed invaders of Pennsylvania and we shall deal with them as such. I count upon your counsel and influence to discourage such attempts and to aid us in every way that you can against those who would by intemperate speech inflame people to criminal actions.

"Our interest in the struggle in which you are engaged is in the maintenance of law and order, the protection of your rights and those of all of our people, citizens and sojourners alike, who live within our laws. During your own stay here you must have been impressed with the fact that our people are law-abiding, and while they have absolute consideration for the rights of others, they are earnest indeed in the protection of their own rights, and the good name of the commonwealth of which they are a part. This is the spirit of the people of Pennsylvania, and as governor of the state I shall see to it that their laws are faithfully executed, their rights protected and their institutions upheld."

Afternoon Frocks for Indian Summer

Summer styles do not carry over into fall now-a-days, any more than those of winter into spring. Fashion takes more and more note of the demi-seasons. In January the provision made for tourists, who go South to meet the spring, leaves winter styles behind, and in August the new frock and top coats for autumn, make their appearance. There has been an organized effort this year on the part of designers and milliners to make fall styles characteristic of the season, and the new apparel seems to interpret our glorious Indian summer. New silks, lightweight and supple, in lovely colors, are interwoven with gold and silver threads and there are many more beautiful frocks that are lightweight also, having velvet and crepe as a background for the broadened figure.

One of the new fall models is shown here in outline with a frog designed for summer wear. The fall model will delight the slender woman because it is one of those that advocates the broadened hip line. It is made of black satin with white dots embroidered on it in rows. The "V" neck, cut high at the back, is another bit of good management on the part of the designer that is especially becoming to a thin woman. It is low in front, filled in with a becoming chemise of lace and embroidered tulle. The three-quarter length kimono sleeves are very prettily finished with the same dainty addition of tulle and lace. They are short enough to reflect vaguely the French abbreviation of sleeves.

The second dress of black and white tulle and black tulle, is a conservative late-summer model in which the two fabrics are cleverly combined. The two scant bouffants of tulle set on below the hip at each side forecast the widened hip line, but they do not broaden the figure any, so that this is a better choice for full figures than the dower model. The pleated panels at the back and front of tulle, and the brightness of black and white in the underbust of tulle, give this frock an unpretentious distinction that will appeal to matrons. They have more need for dresses of this character than for more pronounced things.

TONIGHT AT THE DRIGGS

In "I love you" the farce comedy which G. M. Anderson sends to the Driggs for an engagement tonight William Le Baron, the author, demonstrates what has been strongly suspected since his "The Very Idea" that he is one of the foremost satirists writing for the American stage. Off hand George Ade is the only American we can think of who excels Le Baron in painting satirical pictures. In "I Love You" Le Baron chooses as the subject of his subtle shafts the idle and, in this particular case, the ignorant rich.

Le Baron features his story with a butler, a graduate of Oxford and Harvard and a one time president of a Western university, who, when asked if he is happy in his humble position, replies:

"Oh yes, though the position has its drawbacks like anything else."

"In what way?" asks his interrogator.

"Well," says the butler, "I am brought into association with a very low class of people."

"You mean in the servants quarters?"

"No, in the drawing room," replies the much degraded servant.

The Modern Woman's Way of Washing

Our ancestors of long ago never troubled about washing their clothes. Their apparel was always dirty because no one had discovered the value of cleanliness. And to this day, some of the dwellers in remote parts of Germany have washday but twice a year.

In America washday is a national institution. Our Family Laundry Service is the modern way of observing it. It is for the woman who seeks relief from the washing, but who doesn't mind doing some of the lighter ironing herself.

Our driver calls for your bundle in the customary way. We wash everything—give to everything a sweet cleanliness that no laundress can rival.

Your flat pieces—tablecloths, bed linen and so on—we iron and fold. We know the pearly finish of this work will charm you. Your bath towels we dry in a way that makes them soft and fluffy—a joy to the skin. Other pieces, like shirts and shirtwaists, westarch. We leave these for you to iron at your own leisure.

We do all the heavy, toilsome work—you, only a little of the ironing that is least irksome.

The expense is moderate—less than a washwoman's service would cost; less even than it would cost if you valued your own time at only ten cents an hour.

No need henceforth to look forward to washday with misgivings—just telephone us and we will have our driver call for your family bundle. It is the modern woman's way.

FREE SCHOLARSHIP EXAMS ANNOUNCED

The Legislature of 1919 enacted a law (417) which establishes competitive state scholarships to aid Young Men and Young Women to obtain a higher education. The main provisions of this Act are as follows:

1. Young Men and Women who have graduated from a four year High School Course may compete for a scholarship.

2. The persons receiving a scholarship may enter on college or university approved by the College and University Council and while in attendance upon such college, receive $100 per year for four years to aid in meeting college expenses.

3. Each county is entitled to one scholarship. If there is more than one entire Senatorial district in one county, such county is entitled to as many scholarships as there are Senatorial districts.

4. The competitive examination must be held under the direction of the State Board of Education and the scholarships awarded by such board.

In order that an examination may be brought within an accessible distance of every person in the State who may desire to take it, examinations will be held on Saturday, October 11th, 1919, at all Colleges and Universities, at the State Normal Schools and at the following places: High School Building, Altoona, Pa.; High School Building, DuBois, Pa.; Technical High School Building, Harrisburg, Pa.; High School Building, Kane, Pa.; High School Building, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

I would urge that every person reading this notice would bring it to the attention of every worthy young man and young woman of their acquaintance who is eligible to enter college this year.

Very respectfully,
W. P. Tostle,
County Superintendent of Schools.

BROWN'S

A Few Reasons Why It Pays To Trade At Brown's

Brown's stores are exclusive Shoe stores. There are of them, all under one management that directs the policy, does all of the buying, etc. This cuts down the overhead expenses and permits of better buying. This buying capacity commands respect among manufacturers and allows concessions in price. Certainly it cost the manufacturer more to sell to four separate concerns than, in effect, to one doing the business of four.

Brown's sell high grade shoes at moderate prices exclusively. They aim to make friends of their customers and keep them by giving the utmost in value at the most economical prices possible.

Brown's value their reputation for integrity and base their business on this reputation.

How to Read a Newspaper

By Katherine Taylor, Francis W. Fisher School

"Gimme the funnies, Dad; you can save the rest of it."

It was the day of the signing of the peace treaty. The papers were crowded with great and thrilling news from Europe, but John sat there in the train and stared for an hour at the "funnies." Across the aisle a big fat man looked scornfully at John. Then he took his paper and began to read it at the upper left hand corner of page one. He kept on reading until he had read the last advertisement on the last page. He read every word. It took him three hours.

Which is the right way to read a newspaper—this man's way, or John's? Neither of them. The man wasted a great deal of time in reading useless paragraphs. But John wasted his time.

Too. He had helped celebrate in the streets, but the actual facts in the paper about the peace seemed dull and not worth reading.

Some news is dull because it is about things not worth remembering. Some news seems dull because you do not understand it. Begin now to find out which is which. Father or mother will be glad to help.

Make up your mind to find the real news and to understand it. Try the cartoon. It is like a picture puzzle. There is something to laugh at in the picture but there is a meaning underneath.

Try the headlines. They are short, but tell you the meaning. There is a strike in your town. Why? Would you side with the men or with the employers? Why? There is a new republic starting in Europe. What are its problems? There is a new invention. How will it change things?

A newspaper is like the menu card in a big hotel. You must choose certain things and digest them before it does you any good. Everyone should learn to be his own "Literary Digest." ("Find out for yourself.") Do it next week.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which circulates and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must remove them like you remove your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the chances often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acid and flush off the body's uric acid, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then get fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapefruit and lemon juice, combined with lithium and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent drink. Millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

Deserted Homes in the Trees

By Adella Belle Beard, Author, Artist, and Nature Girl Pioneers of America.

There are not many nests in the trees compared with the number of birds. A surprisingly large proportion of these wonderful little creatures, with wings to carry them to almost any height, return from their flights and snuggle down close to old Mother Earth when the time comes to build their homes. Besides the ground builders there are many birds that build in low bushes within hopping distance of the ground and many more in tangled thickets a few feet higher, which are veritable bird apartment houses holding many families. After that, lower limbs and sheltering holes in old trees are chosen, for the tree tops are few birds that care.

It is easy enough to find the BALTIMORE ORIOLES nest if you are in their neighborhood because, instead of being on top of a limb, it is near the extreme end of an overhanging branch like a deep pocket, swaying in the breeze and safe from all enemies except those that fly. If you can get the nest down you will find it woven of fine grasses, plant fibre, wool yarn, string and strips of cloth, and lined with fine grass and hair. And you will notice that the lower part is strong and compact while the sides are loosely woven to allow the air to enter.

Don't mistake the WHITE-EYED VIREO'S hanging nest for the Oriole's. It is pocket shaped but not so deep. The ORCHARD ORIOLE builds in a tree, not a hanging nest, but basket-like and carefully woven of fresh, green grass, which makes it difficult to see among the green leaves. It is securely laced to small branches and you may find it in the orchard or built in other trees. With the leaves gone and the nest turned yellow it is easier to find.

The tiny nest saddled usually on a high branch, and beautifully covered with lichen so that it looks like part of the tree, belonged to the RUBY THROATED HUMMING-BIRD; and the crotch of the tree is where the nest, little, deep cup-shaped nest is REDSTART lived.

Original Styles in Flapper Coats

Those who originate styles for the flapper are destined to come in for many thanks from that opinionated young person when she views the new winter coats designed for her. Since specialists give their time and thought to her needs styles for her frocks and coats and millinery are no longer afterthoughts of those whose business is to design apparel for grown-ups.

Of course when the girl from twelve to seventeen owns a frock or coat that takes its cue from styles worn by grown-ups her happiness is complete. Here is a coat which has the long shoulder and graceful drape that rules in the new fall coats for women. It is made of velveteen and is less full than the coats whose style it follows. But the arrangement of drapery about the sleeves gives it an ample look and makes it roomy, and these things are the mode for winter coats. At the back this coat suggests a skirt set onto a bodice and this effect is emphasized by a row of covered buttons down the center of the body. It is odd and pretty and girlish.

A small sailor collar, with three plaits at each side, sets an example which the sleeves follow by adopting three plaits for their decoration. Covered buttons, like those on the back of the coat, finish up the sleeve trimming. The coat falls to the cuff of the leg and hangs straight at the front. Altogether it is as pretty as any model so far brought out for the coming winter—and this is saying a great deal to its credit. It is a convincing example of the advantages that come from expert designing. Girls from twelve to sixteen need the sort of service that specialists can give them and are giving them, with more and more success, until we have ceased to call these years "the awkward age."

juried people. Opening the shirt of Mr. Ledger he saw at once that he had undoubtedly pierced the heart and was dying. Going into the house he raised up the body of Mrs. Ledger and saw blood spurting from her right side. She, too, was breathing heavily, and the two of them died within a minute or two of each other. Word was immediately dispatched for a doctor, but when he reached the scene both were dead.

When Ledger came running from the rear of the house Mr. Cousins, sitting on the front porch, was not aware that his daughter had been shot. He yelled at his son-in-law as he went past, flourishing his gun, but the young man paid no attention to him. It is believed on the part of some people that when Ledger first started to run, realizing that he had probably killed his wife, or at least badly wounded her, it was his intention to endeavor to make an escape. But if this was his intention he changed his mind before going very far. This theory is held because of the fact that he had formulated plans for a double killing he would have completed the job while he was at the rear of the house, away from everybody. It is not believed that he had any intention of killing Mrs. Ledger for any length of time before the deed was committed. He had never been known to make any threats, although it is alleged that they had some difficulties previous to yesterday. Those who knew the young man refer to him as a steady worker, or rather a quiet disposition, but given at times to brooding. He was an employee at Shaft No. 2 on the day shift and had been working right along.

Following an investigation by the coroner, Dr. Pollara, communicated with District Attorney J. C. Arnone, of Clearfield, who decided that in view of the circumstances, no inquiry was necessary. The remains were then removed to the Moore morgue, where they were prepared for burial and later taken to the home.

The news of the double shooting spread quickly in the neighborhood and within a short time a curious crowd had gathered. A large number of automobilists, seeing the crowd gather, stopped their cars and added to the number already on the scene. At the request of the family, however, the crowd dispersed shortly after the bodies were removed.

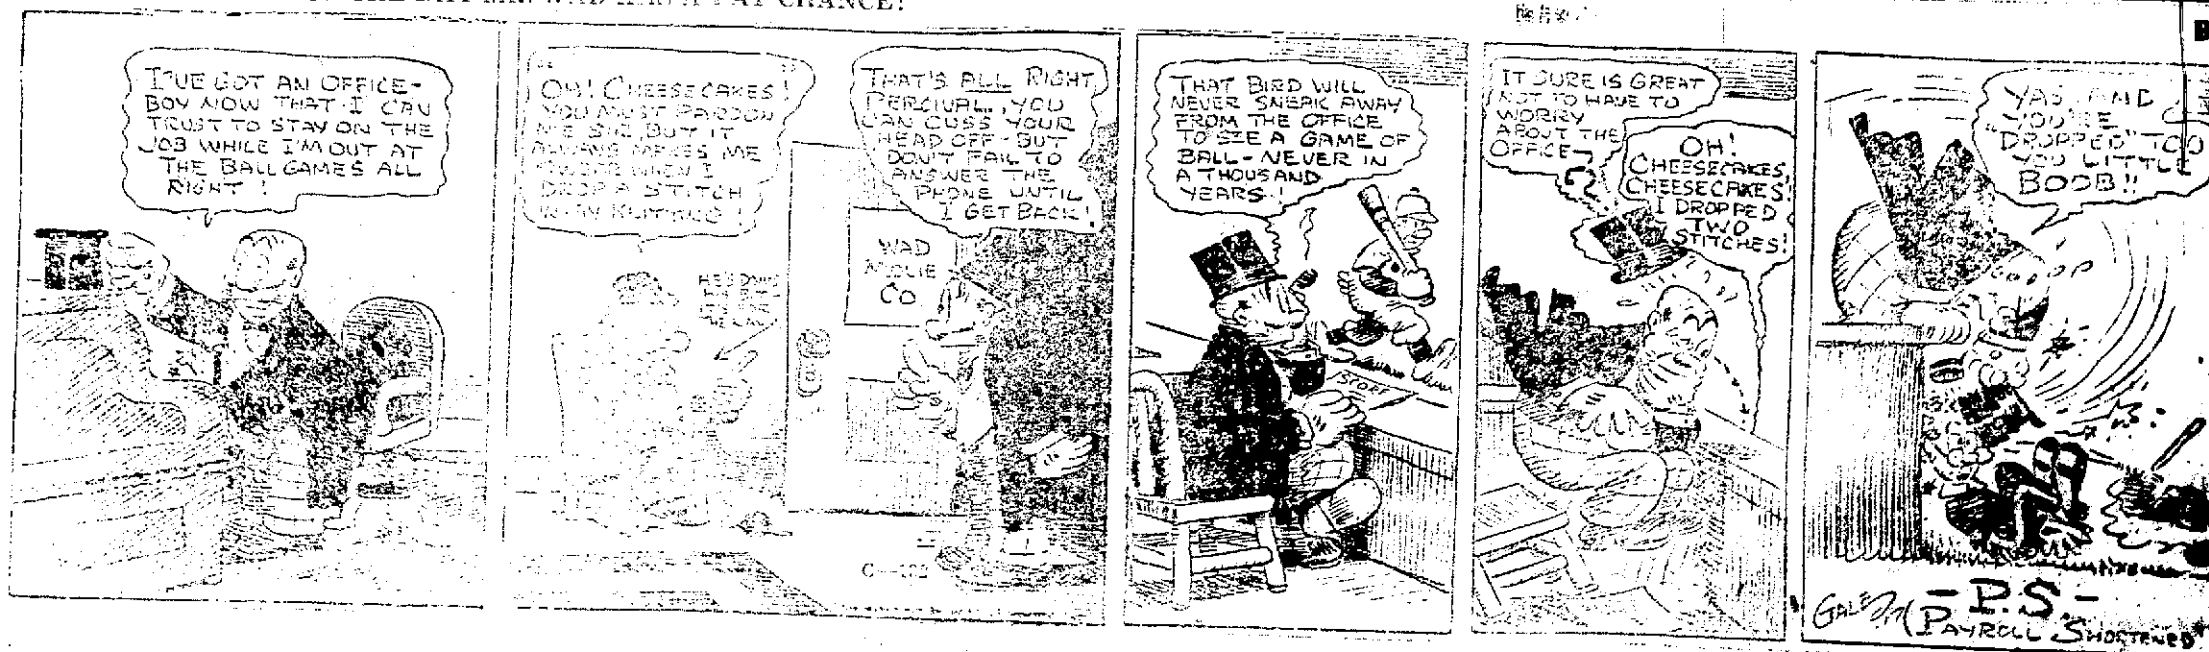

An examination disclosed the fact that the bullet killing Mrs. Ledger had pierced her right side right under the shoulder and had traveled almost through the body. The bullet entering Mr. Ledger's body went within an inch of each other and both of them went completely through the body, and were just under the skin on the back. One of them undoubtedly pierced the heart and it is remarkable that a man with wounds of this character could stagger as far as he did after being shot. Witnesses stated that he traveled a distance of over fifty feet towards the house before he collapsed.

FORMER CLEARFIELD COUNTY BOY DIES IN WEST

Louis Huganey, one of the best known residents of Aroville, died suddenly at his home September 11, 1919. Death came as a surprise and shock to his friends. Louis Huganey was 58 years of age. He was a native of Pennsylvania, but had made his home in Aroville since 1885. He was prominently connected with the Aroville Light and Water company, and for eighteen years held a responsible position with the Natoma company. For the past two years he was connected with the American Gold Dredging company.

He is survived by his widow and three daughters, the Misses Edna, Anna, and Annette Huganey. He also leaves three brothers and two sisters in Pennsylvania.

"I Love You"

The comely hit of the year. Clever, new, and novel, both in plot and construction, it contains two figures new to the stage. A cultured butler and an educated electrician. These two figures help to make this subtle little affair one of the really worth-while shows of the season. Come, and be assured of an evening of solid enjoyment.

EVELYN NESBIT THAW IN

"Thou Shalt Not"

The beautifully told story of a little country girl who is saved from the tears of degradation by a true love. Tears and laughter mingle with scenes of great emotion. A picture you will never forget.

"The Red Glove" "Special Comedies"

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3rd

What would YOU do for a woman's honor? If you are a REAL man, you will answer that nothing is too great. This is exactly what H. B. WARNER did in

"For a Woman's Honor"

Not smashing—not shocking; but the deepest, tenderest depth of sentiment runs thru this splendid picture. The grief of a strong man when his silence costs him sweet heart and friends is so ably pictured by Mr. WARNER that he is simply irresistible to YOU. The scene is laid in India and for this purpose an entire village was built. You who have seen H. B. WARNER know what sort of acting to expect. For real drama, this is the most excellent picture we have yet booked.

"FOR A WOMAN'S HONOR" is playing on Broadway this week.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE IN

"Goodnight Paul"

This is another of Constance Talmadge's clever comedies. The story is about the attempt of Matthew Talmadge to help her husband out of financial difficulties by procuring herself the partner's wife when his uncle arrives to give him $50,000. He has married to perpetuate the family name. Then Uncle decides to stay in the house. Ingenious complications occur, until "GOODNIGHT, PAUL" is a veritable bonanza of laughter.

FELL FROM CHESTNUT TREE

Ulysses Eyerly, of Glen Richey, was brought to the Clearfield Hospital today, suffering from very serious injuries received in a fall from a chestnut tree, on Sunday afternoon.

The young man was one of a party of young people which went to the McDonald farm near Turkey Hill Sunday to gather chestnuts. He was in a tree forty feet from the ground, when a limb broke with him and he fell. It is thought his back is broken, and in addition thereto, he suffered other serious bruises.

FAD FOR STRIPED CRETONNES

Pleasing Effects Are Considered
Smarter for Hall, Living Room
and the Porch.

There is a fad for striped upholstery this year and just how these striped effects are considered smarter, for hall, living room and porch, than the flowered patterns that are reserved for sleeping rooms. Some of the broadly striped designs have great dignity and character and they do give a room a certain distinction—probably because of their newness—that is fancied at the moment more than the gaiety of flowered chintz.

A specially smart pattern has a tan-colored ground with very wide stripes of deep blue, and down the center of each blue stripe runs a narrow, definite stripe of black. A country house living room is going to have curtains and chair covers of this blue, black and tan-striped cretonne, used with a deep blue rug, some pieces of old, beautifully polished mahogany, and lamp shades of deep blue patterned silk.

These shades are merely squares of silk, bordered with narrow black braid, and a black silk tassel swings from each corner of the square, when it is thrown over the foundation shade which is of orange-colored cotton. The orange does not show by day, but gives a soft glow through the thin blue silk cover when the lamp is lighted.

All Wind.

Henry Watterson, the famous editor, was talking about politicians. "Take the wind, the gulf, out of a politician," he said, "and what remains?"

"A noted politician's wife was listening to her husband over the telephone. Five ten, fifteen minutes she listened patiently. Then she said: "Excuse me, Charles. Just a moment. I want to change the record over to the other ear. This one's so loud!"

BETHLEHEM WORKERS IGNORE FOSTER

LESS THAN QUARTER OF
MEN FAIL TO GO TO WORKREPORTS ALSO INDICATE INCREASE IN
MAN POWER AT PLANTS IN THE
PITTSBURGH DISTRICT

DEADLOCK IS STILL APPARENT

STEELTON, Sept. 29.—Hundreds of workers of the Bethlehem Steel company plant were reported to have gone to work at the plant this morning. They reported to work in the face of the strike order issued by Secretary Foster of the Steel Workers committee.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29.—Dawn of the second week of the steel strike brought what operators and labor leaders termed the crisis in the gigantic industrial struggle. Both sides were marshaling their forces for the crucial moment.

Early reports from the mills in the steel city district indicated a favorable increase in man power.

The Jones & Laughlin office reported that the fourth attempt to call out the men had been a psychological mistake and that the men returned to work as usual—100 per cent. Less pickets were on the streets this morning than at any time during the strike.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 29.—Approximately 15 per cent. of the employes of the Bethlehem Steel Company at South Bethlehem failed to report to work this morning, it is estimated by police authorities. There was no disorder.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.—According to officials of the Bethlehem Steel plant at Sparrow's Point only a few men walked out. A vote taken yesterday showed only a few in favor of the strike. The men have been working on half time recently.

TITUSVILLE, Sept. 29.—The local plant of the Bethlehem Steel company continued operation today. Officials said that scarcely a man had answered the strike call set for today.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Steel plants in Chicago today claimed that all the men returned to work today despite the strike order. Union leaders, however, claimed the situation was still effective and that only a few men were returning to work. John Fitzpatrick steel leader who returned to Chicago from the Pittsburgh district, said, "I see by the papers that there is nothing to do now but have a good undertaker bury the strike."

BUFFALO, Sept. 29.—The Lackawanna Steel company plant resumed operation today following a week's shut down. Six hundred men returned to work on the first shift. There was no disorder.

PUNISHMENT NOT HALF
SEVERE ENOUGH

Ed. Hallman, Charles Schreck, David Pearce and Henry Long were fined $10 each and costs by Squire W. W. McQuown at Mahaffey Friday following pleas of guilty entered by the men to a charge of inhuman treatment of a cow. The men were part of a section crew on the P. R. R. out of McGee's Mills and on September 5th last when a cow belonging to Thomas Koshivny, of Clover Run, suffering for three days before she ran ahead of the hand car on which they were riding, they chased her along the track for half a mile. The excited cow ran along the track and every time she lagged the hand car would blimp her and start her running wildly again. Finally in attempting to escape by crossing the track ahead of the car she was struck, knocked down and suffered a broken leg. The injured animal was hauled from the track and tumbled down over the bank and left lying there for three days before she was found and humanely put to death.

ILLNESS OF PRESIDENT WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH
LABOR-CAPITAL CONFERENCE SCHEDULED OCT. 6TH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—President Wilson had a restless night but is sleeping this morning, a bulletin issued by Dr. Grayson, the President's physician said today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The round table industrial conference set for October 6th, will meet despite the illness of President Wilson, it was said at the White House today. The President, however, will probably be unable to take any part in the session.

It was also definitely announced today that the King and Queen of Belgium will tour the country before coming to Washington to be guests at the White House.

DUBOIS YOUNG

Domestic Strife Cause of Rash
Act of Geo. Ledger, Employee of Shaft No. 2

PAIR LEAVE CHILD ORPHAN

DuBois, Sept. 29.—As the result of a jealous rage that swept over George Ledger yesterday afternoon he first shot and killed his wife, Bessie Ledger, and then killed himself. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ledger died within a few moments of each other. The scene of the double killing was at the Ledger home on the road just beyond the B. and S. crossing. The event immediately preceding the killing and just what was the immediate cause will probably never be known, as the two were in the rear of the house at the time the trouble started and both were so mortally wounded that they could make no statement before dying. Coroner J. I. Pollum, who investigated the circumstances in connection with the unfortunate affair, refused to talk for publication, stating he would not give any of the "inside" facts. It is not known whether there are any "inside" facts, but the two were alleged to have had some domestic infelicity during the past several months and had not been living together a part of the time. But yesterday it is stated that the two were together and that they had been down town together. They returned home and went inside, Jake Cousins, a well known citizen of that section and father of the girl, together with a sister of the girl being seated on the front porch.

Alex Stewart, who had his baby out for a walk, was passing directly in front of the Cousins home at the time of the tragedy. He stated that he had just spoken to Mr. Cousins, seated on the porch, when he heard three shots from the rear of the house. He heard a woman scream and saw Mrs. Ledger staggering in the hall. At the same time Mr. Ledger came running from the rear of the house, clutching in his hand a revolver. Mr. Stewart, fearing that the baby might get hurt, retreated a short distance down the road towards the crossing. He saw Ledger cross the road and go up the bank for

JURY FINDS

The jury returned a verdict of guilty in the case against Messrs. Garman, Young and Thurston, supervisors of Jordan township on Saturday evening last. In this case the Supervisors were proceeded against criminally for maintaining a nuisance in the condition of the road into McCarty from Knox township. It was the first case of the kind tried in the Clearfield county courts and the verdict of the jury means that no longer shall the township supervisor run road affairs in his township like the Kaiser of Germany used to handle things in his former dominions.

We are not familiar with the situation in Jordan, so must take the jury's verdict in that case but we are personally acquainted with several sections where the supervisors should not only be convicted but sent to jail as well for the kind of roads they are allowing to exist in their bailiwicks without making any effort to remedy or repair same.

The Jordan township case grew out of the breaking of a spring on an automobile owned by Eli Bloom of Knox township, when the machine dropped into a hole in the road near McCarty. A civil suit for damages will now no doubt be instituted against the township.

AUTO AND WAGON COLLIDE

Frank Conklin's auto and a wagon load of brick, being driven by Harry Zimmerman disputed the right of way into the Second street bridge this morning. The machine was pretty badly used up while the traffic was blocked for about five minutes, but fortunately the drivers of the vehicles escaped injury.

STOCKS HIGH

NEW YORK—Leading issues were high at the stock market opening today. United States Steel, however, was off 1-2 at 106 and Bethlehem B. off at 102. Crucible opened at 218 up 3, Studebaker at 120 1-2 up 3-4, Baldwin 136 up 1-8, and Pan American Petroleum at 118 off 1-2.

TWO KILLED AND COURT
HOUSE BURNED BY MOB
AT OMAHA, NEBRASKAMAYOR UPHOLDING LAW, IS HANGED BUT
CUT DOWN BARELY IN TIME TO
SAVE HIM FROM DEATH

MARTIAL LAW RESTORES ORDER

OMAHA, NEB., Sept. 29.—Mob rule held steady old Omaha in its grasp yesterday. An infuriated mob sought a negro, identified as the assailant of a white girl.

Martial law was declared in Omaha today. Five thousand soldiers patrolled the streets. Mounted police patrolled in the vicinity of the court house and in the negro district and the situation appeared under the control of the soldiers.

The summary of results of 16 hours of riot rule in Omaha follows: Wm. Brown, negro, identified by Agnes Loebach, aged 19, as the man who assaulted her; lynched and his body burned.

Samuel Clapcy shot and killed and 56 others injured. Mayor Edward P. Smith in a serious condition at the hospital suffering from injuries inflicted by the mob.

Douglas County Court House newly built at a cost of $1,500,000 in ruins from fire.

The mayor narrowly escaped the fate of the negro whom he defended from the mob. His last words muttered when nearly unconscious from beating were: "I will give my life if necessary but I will not surrender the negro. I am going to enforce the law." The Mayor was saved by having the rope which was around his neck cut when he was being lifted from the ground. The Mayor was rushed to the hospital in a passing automobile. Physicians said this morning his condition was critical.

From 6 o'clock last evening until this morning great crowds thronged the streets; men, women and children crowded around the court house went wild. Pawn shops and hardware stores were looted to obtain fire arms and ammunition.

Every policeman on the street was overpowered, their clubs were taken from them and many were seriously beaten.

Sheriff Mitchell Clark and two deputies held the crowd at bay until the court house began burning. They extinguished the fire which the mob started on the first floor but the mob soon obtained more gasoline and flames were soon seen bursting from the second and third story floors as the crowd howled with glee. The jail is on the first floor and Sheriff Clark took his prisoners to the roof in an effort to save him. Nearly 100 other prisoners begged the Sheriff to surrender the negro in order that they might be saved. The sheriff refused.

HEISEYS TANK CORP
MOWS DOWN ELK
COUNTY ELEVEN

The 1919 football season at Clearfield High was opened Saturday in a game with the team representing Johnsonburg High school in the presence of one of the largest opening day crowds in the past several seasons.

Coach Heisey had his machine working like a Ford, and like the Ford it trundled any place the captain desired it to go and this, too, without asking permission of the husky sons of little Elk.

The visitors were sure up against the real thing as the score seems to indicate the final count Clearfield, 47; Johnsonburg, 0.

The line-up follows:

Clearfield	Johnsonburg
Curley	FB
Holland	LH
Davies, A.	RH
Stine	QB
Hill	RE
Davies, M.	RT
Snyder	RG
Larson	C
Beckendorn	LG

Substitutes: Jackson for Bowes, Wright for Kurtz; Bud for Wood-

Touchdowns: Butler, 2; Cox, 3; Flegal, 2; Flegal also kicked five goals.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING
POSTPONED

On account of Bishop Israel speaking in the High school Auditorium on Tuesday evening the regular meeting of the Woman's club will be postponed until Thursday evening. Mrs. Philip Reed, of South Second street, will be hostess.

A little play will be given and a collection taken for the support of the club's French orphan. A good attendance is hoped for. $29-30c.

Additional Personals

Harry Butler will leave tomorrow for the University of Buffalo, where he is a student.

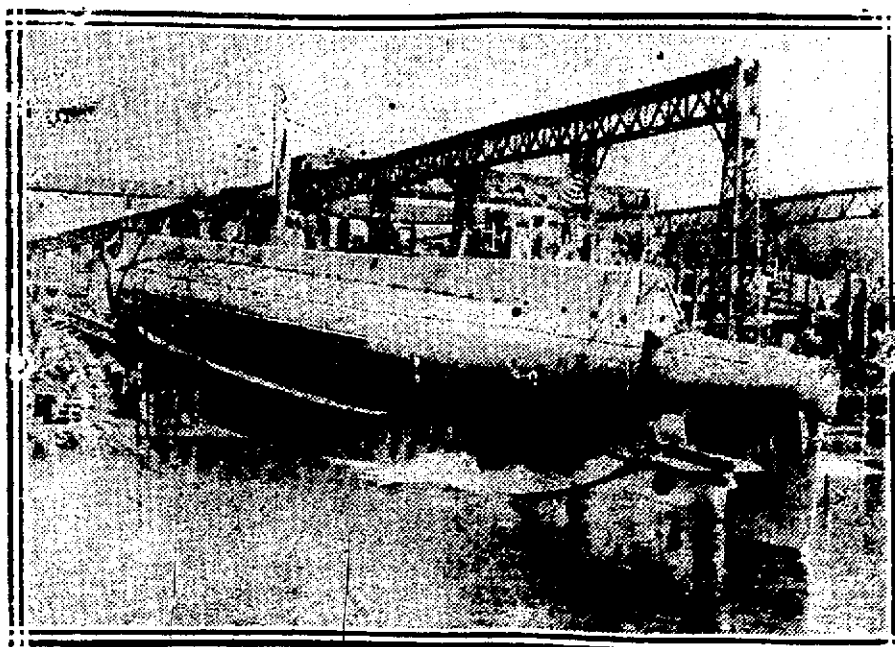

Everett Shaw left yesterday for Philadelphia where he will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rice and sons of Sandy Ridge, spent the weekend at the home of George Gulich on Walnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Jones and family moved to Tyrone and Altoona yesterday.

Mrs. Emily Edmiston accompanied Mrs. Lansberry's solo with the violin yesterday at the West Side Methodist church.

Clark Kitzberger has returned from a business trip to Pittsburgh.

THE OMAHA AFFAIR

Mob violence does not make the role of the criminal more bitter; neither has it been proven that lynching deters the hand of the criminal. That no punishment is severe enough for such a brute in this case is conceded. On the other hand what satisfaction can the people of Omaha have in the knowledge that they have allowed their passions to run riot, have killed an officer sworn to uphold the law and protect the lives of its citizens and permitted a few hoodlums in the crowd to burn to ashes their new county building.

All of the affair is the most ignorant and imbecile folly. The motives for the uncalculated occurrence are not yet explained and probably never will be. As a rule the men who take part in these lynching parties are forever ashamed of themselves.

Their treatment of the Mayor and the burning of their own building is beyond understanding. It is just possible, and highly probable, that the men who applied the torch to the public building were of that class who grasp at every opportunity to wreck property. The mob offered a good cover under which they possibly practiced the tenets of their cult.

SPROUL'S ANSWER TO FOSTER

Governor Sproul's telegram to strike leader Foster, writer of anarchistic doctrines, is worthy of the closest reading by all good Americans. It is also an answer to Foster's vicious tirade against the maintenance of law and order by the State Police.

"Your telegram complaining of the action of a squad of our state police in dispersing a crowd at North Clairton has received my attention. My information is that the people were ordered to move in accordance with a proclamation by the sheriff forbidding public gatherings, that the police did not approach the crowd until their commands had been defied and that nobody was hurt until shots had been fired and stones and other missiles had been thrown at the officers. Experience has shown that it is dangerous to permit the congregation of large numbers of the people during times of stress and excitement and the sheriff, as the official charged with the maintenance of law and order, was acting for the public welfare in forbidding the gatherings and in enforcing his decrees. In carrying out this policy the sheriffs of all of the counties will have the full assistance of the state.

"Permit me to take this opportunity of saying to you that in the situation which now exists, when lawlessness and disorder have compelled the intervention of the state to aid the local authorities to maintain the peace, when every good citizen's attitude should be that of upholding the law and counseling and aiding in the maintenance of order, I shall expect your full co-operation in helping us to see that the laws of the commonwealth are observed and its peace preserved.

"Reports have reached me that many agitators, hostile alike to our institutions of government and to the organization which you represent, have taken advantage of the disturbed conditions to come into Pennsylvania to spread wicked propaganda and to endeavor to incite the ignorant and the vicious to riot and pillage. These persons are enemies of the state and our endeavor is being given to their apprehension and punishment under our laws.

"Information has come to us that efforts are being made by dangerous and evil-disposed persons at points in other states near our boundaries to collect armed mobs to come across the state line to overpower our municipal authorities and to attack our citizens and destroy their property. If any such attempts are made we shall be compelled to regard these mobs as armed invaders of Pennsylvania and we shall deal with them as such. I count upon your counsel and influence to discourage such attempts and to aid us in every way that you can against those who would by intemperate speech inflame people to criminal actions.

"Our interest in the struggle in which you are engaged is in the maintenance of law and order, the protection of your rights and those of all of our people, citizens and sojourners alike, who live within our laws. During your own stay here you must have been impressed with the fact that our people are law-abiding, and while they have absolute consideration for the rights of others, they are earnest indeed in the protection of their own rights, and the good name of the commonwealth of which they are a part. This is the spirit of the people of Pennsylvania, and as governor of the state I shall see to it that their laws are faithfully executed, their rights protected and their institutions upheld."

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

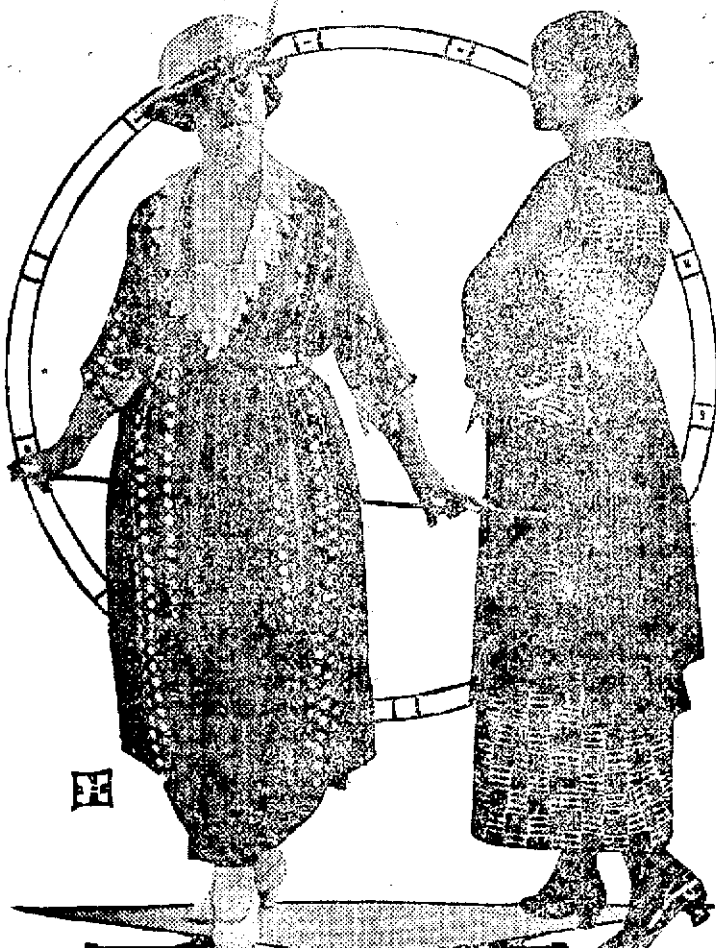

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

Afternoon Frocks for Indian Summer

Summer styles do not carry over into fall now-a-days, any more than those of winter into spring. Fashion takes more and more note of the demi-seasons. In January the provision made for tourists, who go South to meet the spring, leaves winter styles behind, and in August the new frock and top coats for autumn, make their appearance. There has been an organized effort this year on the part of designers and milliners to make fall styles characteristic of the season, and the new apparel seems to interpret our glorious Indian summer. New silks, lightweight and supple, in lovely colors, are interwoven with gold and silver threads and there are many more beautiful frocks that are lightweight also, having velvet and crepe as a background for the broadened figure.

One of the new fall models is shown here in outline with a frock designed for summer wear. The fall model will delight the slender woman because it is one of those that advocates the broadened hip line. It is made of black satin with white dots embroidered on it in rows. The "V" neck, cut high at the back, is another bit of good management on the part of the designer that is especially becoming to a thin woman. It is low in front, filled in with a becoming chemise of lace and embroidered tulle. The three-quarter length kimono sleeves are very prettily finished with the same dainty addition of tulle and lace. They are short enough to reflect vaguely the French abbreviation of sleeves.

The second dress of black and white foulard and black georgette, is a conservative late-summer model in which the two fabrics are cleverly combined. The two scant bouffants of georgette set on below the hip at each side forecast the widened hip line, but they do not broaden the figure any, so that this is a better choice for full figures than the dower model. The pleated panels at the back and front of georgette, and the brightness of black and white in the underbodice of foulard, give this frock an unpretentious distinction that will appeal to matrons. They have more need for dresses of this character than for more pronounced things.

TONIGHT AT THE DRIGGS

In "I love you" the farce comedy which G. M. Anderson sends to the Driggs for an engagement tonight William Le Baron, the author, demonstrates what has been strongly suspected since his "The Very Idea" that he is one of the foremost satirists writing for the American stage. Off hand George Ade is the only American we can think of who excels Le Baron in painting satirical pictures. In "I Love You" Le Baron chooses as the subject of his subtle shafts the idle and, in this particular case, the ignorant rich.

Le Baron features his story with a butler, a graduate of Oxford and Harvard and a one time president of a Western university, who, when asked if he is happy in his humble position, replies:

"Oh yes, though the position has its drawbacks like anything else."

"In what way?" asks his interrogator.

"Well," says the butler, "I am brought into association with a very low class of people."

"You mean in the servants quarters?"

"No, in the drawing room," replies the much degraded servant.

The Modern Woman's Way of Washing

Our ancestors of long ago never troubled about washing their clothes. Their apparel was always dirty because no one had discovered the value of cleanliness. And to this day, some of the dwellers in remote parts of Germany have washday but twice a year.

In America washday is a national institution. Our Family Laundry Service is the modern way of observing it. It is for the woman who seeks relief from the washing, but who doesn't mind doing some of the lighter ironing herself.

Our driver calls for your bundle in the customary way. We wash everything—give to everything a sweet cleanliness that no laundress can rival.

Your flat pieces—tablecloths, bed linen and so on—we iron and fold. We know the pearly finish of this work will charm you. Your bath towels we dry in a way that makes them soft and fluffy—a joy to the skin. Other pieces, like shirts and shirtwaists, westarch. We leave these for you to iron at your own leisure.

We do all the heavy, toilsome work—you, only a little of the ironing that is least irksome.

The expense is moderate—less than a washwoman's service would cost; less even than it would cost if you valued your own time at only ten cents an hour.

No need henceforth to look forward to washday with misgivings—just telephone us and we will have our driver call for your family bundle. It is the modern woman's way.

FREE SCHOLARSHIP EXAMS ANNOUNCED

The Legislature of 1919 enacted a law (417) which establishes competitive state scholarships to aid Young Men and Young Women to obtain a higher education. The main provisions of this Act are as follows:

1. Young Men and Women who have graduated from a four year High School Course may compete for a scholarship.

2. The persons receiving a scholarship may enter on college or university approved by the College and University Council and while in attendance upon such college, receive $100 per year for four years to aid in meeting college expenses.

3. Each county is entitled to one scholarship. If there is more than one entire Senatorial district in one county, such county is entitled to as many scholarships as there are Senatorial districts.

4. The competitive examination must be held under the direction of the State Board of Education and the scholarships awarded by such board.

In order that an examination may be brought within an accessible distance of every person in the State who may desire to take it, examinations will be held on Saturday, October 11th, 1919, at all Colleges and Universities, at the State Normal Schools and at the following places: High School Building, Altoona, Pa.; High School Building, DuBois, Pa.; Technical High School Building, Harrisburg, Pa.; High School Building, Kane, Pa.; High School Building, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

I would urge that every person reading this notice would bring it to the attention of every worthy young man and young woman of their acquaintance who is eligible to enter college this year.

Very respectfully,
W. P. Tostle,
County Superintendent of Schools.

BROWN'S

A Few Reasons Why It Pays To Trade At Brown's

Brown's stores are exclusive Shoe stores. There are of them, all under one management that directs the policy, does all of the buying, etc. This cuts down the overhead expenses and permits of better buying. This buying capacity commands respect among manufacturers and allows concessions in price. Certainly it cost the manufacturer more to sell to four separate concerns than, in effect, to one doing the business of four.

Brown's sell high grade shoes at moderate prices exclusively. They aim to make friends of their customers and keep them by giving the utmost in value at the most economical prices possible.

Brown's value their reputation for integrity and base their business on this reputation.

CANDIDATES EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Candidates at the September primary election have begun to file their expense accounts. Under the amended law where a candidate had no expense it is not necessary to file any statement. Heretofore where the expenses were less than $50 a statement to that effect had to be filed.

That has been done away with under the amendment to the Corrupt Practices Act of 1906.

The first statements on file in the Prothonotary's office were:

County Commissioner
James F. Dunn, D. $181.00
Charles S. Strong, R. $113.00

Candidates who were successful at the nomination will not be required to file statements until after the general election.

COURT NOTES

The second week of September Criminal Court opened this morning with Judge Bell on the bench. The first case called was that of Com. vs. Bert and Clarence Wisor, Scott Hess and Harry Baney. These men are accused by John Haney, of Boggs township, of pulling him from his conveyance on the evening of June 14th last, and kicking and beating him severely. The battle occurred near James Wrigley's, in Lawrence township. A. M. Liveright is representing the prosecution and A. B. Cramer the defense.

How to Read a Newspaper

By Katherine Taylor

Francis W. Fisher School

"Gimme the funnies, Dad; you can have the rest of it."

It was the day of the signing of the peace treaty. The papers were crowded with great and thrilling news from Europe, but John sat there in the train and stared for an hour at the "funnies."

Across the aisle a big fat man looked scornfully at John. Then he took his paper and began to read it at the upper left hand corner of page one. He kept on reading until he had read the last advertisement on the last page. He read every word. It took him three hours.

Which is the right way to read a newspaper—this man's way, or John's?

Neither of them. The man wasted a great deal of time in reading useless paragraphs. But John wasted his time.

There are not many nests in the trees compared with the number of birds. A surprisingly large proportion of these wonderful little creatures, with wings to carry them to almost any height, return from their flights and snuggle down close to old Mother Earth when the time comes to build their homes.

Besides the ground builders there are many birds that build in low bushes within hopping distance of the ground and many more in tangled thickets a few feet higher, which are veritable bird apartment houses holding many families. After that, lower limbs and sheltering holes in old trees are chosen, for the tree tops are few birds that care.

It is easy enough to find the BALTIMORE ORIOLES nest if you are in their neighborhood because, instead of being on top of a limb, it is near the extreme end of an overhanging branch (often of an elm tree) and hangs down like a deep pocket, swaying in the breeze and safe from all enemies except those that fly. If you can get the nest down you will find it woven of fine grasses, plant fibre, wool yarn, string and strips of cloth, and lined with fine grass and hair. And you will notice that the lower part is strong and compact while the sides are loosely woven to allow the air to enter.

Don't mistake the WHITE-EYED VIREO'S hanging nest for the Oriole's. It is pocket shaped but not so deep.

The ORCHARD ORIOLE builds in a tree, not a hanging nest, but basket-like and carefully woven of fresh, green grass, which makes it difficult to see among the green leaves. It is securely laced to small branches and you may find it in the orchard or built in other trees. With the leaves gone and the nest turned yellow it is easier to find.

The tiny nest saddled usually on a high branch, and beautifully covered with lichen so that it looks like part of the tree, belonged to the RUBY THROATED HUMMING-BIRD; and the crotch of the tree is where the nest, little, deep cup-shaped nest is REDSTART lived.

Deserted Homes in the Trees

By Adella Belle Beard

Author, Artist, and Nature Girl Pioneers of America.

There are not many nests in the trees compared with the number of birds. A surprisingly large proportion of these wonderful little creatures, with wings to carry them to almost any height, return from their flights and snuggle down close to old Mother Earth when the time comes to build their homes.

Besides the ground builders there are many birds that build in low bushes within hopping distance of the ground and many more in tangled thickets a few feet higher, which are veritable bird apartment houses holding many families. After that, lower limbs and sheltering holes in old trees are chosen, for the tree tops are few birds that care.

The ORCHARD ORIOLE builds in a tree, not a hanging nest, but basket-like and carefully woven of fresh, green grass, which makes it difficult to see among the green leaves. It is securely laced to small branches and you may find it in the orchard or built in other trees. With the leaves gone and the nest turned yellow it is easier to find.

The tiny nest saddled usually on a high branch, and beautifully covered with lichen so that it looks like part of the tree, belonged to the RUBY THROATED HUMMING-BIRD; and the crotch of the tree is where the nest, little, deep cup-shaped nest is REDSTART lived.

Original Styles in Flapper Coats

Those who originate styles for the flapper are destined to come in for many thanks from that opinionated young person when she views the new winter coats designed for her. Since specialists give their time and thought to her needs styles for her frocks and coats and millinery are no longer afterthoughts of those whose business is to design apparel for grown-ups.

Of course when the girl from twelve to seventeen owns a frock or coat that takes its cue from styles worn by grown-ups her happiness is complete. Here is a coat which has the long shoulder and graceful drapery that rules in the new fall coats for women. It is made of velveteen and is less full than the coats whose style it follows. But the arrangement of drapery about the sleeves gives it an ample look and makes it roomy, and these things are the mode for winter coats. At the back this coat suggests a skirt set onto a bodice and this effect is emphasized by a row of covered buttons down the center of the body. It is odd and pretty and girlish.

A small sailor collar, with three plaits at each side, sets an example which the sleeves follow by adopting three plaits for their decoration. Covered buttons, like those on the back of the coat, finish up the sleeve trimming. The coat falls to the cuff of the leg and hangs straight at the front. Altogether it is as pretty as any model so far brought out for the coming winter—and this is saying a great deal to its credit. It is a convincing example of the advantages that come from expert designing. Girls from twelve to sixteen need the sort of service that specialists can give them and are giving them, with more and more success, until we have ceased to call these years "the awkward age."

FORMER CLEARFIELD COUNTY BOY DIES IN WEST

Louis Huganey, one of the best known residents of Aroville, died suddenly at his home September 11, 1919. Death came as a surprise and shock to his friends. Louis Huganey was 58 years of age. He was a native of Pennsylvania, but had made his home in Aroville since 1885. He was prominently connected with the Aroville Light and Water company, and for eighteen years held a responsible position with the Natoma company. For the past two years he was connected with the American Gold Dredging company.

He is survived by his widow and three daughters, the Misses Ida, Edna, and Annette Huganey. He also leaves three brothers and two sisters in Pennsylvania.

a distance of possibly twenty feet. He then stopped and pointed the revolver towards his heart. He pulled the trigger twice and then relinquished his hold on the gun. Mr. Ledger then started back toward the house and reached the front yard when he collapsed. Mr. Stewart returned to the house, handed his baby over to a girl and went to the assistance of the m-jured people. Opening the shirt of Mr. Ledger he saw at once that he had undoubtedly pierced the heart and was dying. Going into the house he raised up the body of Mrs. Ledger and saw blood spurting from her right side. She, too, was breathing heavily, and the two of them died within a minute or two of each other. Word was immediately dispatched for a doctor, but when he reached the scene both were dead.

When Ledger came running from the rear of the house Mr. Cousins, sitting on the front porch, was not aware that his daughter had been shot. He yelled at his son-in-law as he went past, flourishing his gun, but the young man paid no attention to him. It is believed on the part of some people that when Ledger first started a run, realizing that he had probably killed his wife, or at least badly wounded her, it was his intention to endeavor to make an escape. But if this was his intention he changed his mind before going very far. This theory is held because of the fact that he had formulated plans for a double killing he would have completed the job while he was at the rear of the house, away from everybody. It is not believed that he had any intention of killing Mrs. Ledger for any length of time before the deed was committed. He had never been known to make any threats, although it is alleged that they had some difficulties previous to yesterday. Those who knew the young man refer to him as a steady worker, or rather a quiet disposition, but given at times to brooding. He was an employee at Shaft No. 2 on the day shift and had been working right along.

Following an investigation by the coroner, Dr. Pollara, communicated with District Attorney J. C. Armon, of Clearfield, who decided that in view of the circumstances, no inquiry was necessary. The remains were then removed to the Moore morgue, where they were prepared for burial and later taken to the home. There is one child who is left an orphan by the tragic occurrence of yesterday. The news of the double shooting spread quickly in the neighborhood and within a short time a curious crowd had gathered. A large number of automobilists, seeing the crowd gather, stopped their cars and this added to the number already on the scene. At the request of the family, however, the crowd dispersed shortly after the bodies were removed.

An examination disclosed the fact that the bullet killing Mrs. Ledger had pierced her right side right under the shoulder and had traveled almost through the body. The bullet entering Mr. Ledger's body went within an inch of each other and both of them went completely through the body, and were just under the skin on the back. One of them undoubtedly pierced the heart and it is remarkable that a man with wounds of this character could stagger as far as he did after being shot. Witnesses stated that he traveled a distance of over fifty feet towards the house before he collapsed.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3rd

What would YOU do for a woman's honor? If you are a REAL man, you will answer that nothing is too great. This is exactly what H. B. WARNER did in

"For a Woman's Honor"

Not smashing—not shocking; but the deepest, tenderest depth of sentiment runs thru this splendid picture. The grief of a strong man when his silence costs him sweet heart and friends is so ably pictured by Mr. WARNER that he is simply irresistible to YOU. The scene is laid in India and for this purpose an entire village was built. You who have seen H. B. WARNER know what sort of acting to expect. For real drama, this is the most excellent picture we have yet booked.

"FOR A WOMAN'S HONOR" is playing on Broadway this week.

FELL FROM CHESTNUT TREE

Ulysses Eyerly, of Glen Richey, was brought to the Clearfield Hospital today, suffering from very serious injuries received in a fall from a chestnut tree, on Sunday afternoon.

The young man was one of a party of young people which went to the McDonald farm near Turkey Hill Sunday to gather chestnuts. He was in a tree forty feet from the ground, when a limb broke with him and he fell. It is thought his back is broken, and in addition thereto, he suffered other serious bruises.

SIMPLE AND CHARMING DRESS

This is a dress of yellow voile beaded in blue and white, with a sash of blue; an exquisite creation so summery and beautiful.

FAD FOR STRIPED CRETONNES

Pleasing Effects Are Considered
Smarter for Hall, Living Room
and the Porch.

There is a fad for striped upholstery this year and just how these striped effects are considered smarter, for hall, living room and porch, than the flowered patterns that are reserved for sleeping rooms. Some of the broadly striped designs have great dignity and character and they do give a room a certain distinction—probably because of their newness—that is fancied at the moment more than the gaiety of flowered chintz.

A specially smart pattern has a tan-colored ground with very wide stripes of deep blue, and down the center of each blue stripe runs a narrow, definite stripe of black. A country house living room is going to have curtains and chair covers of this blue, black and tan-striped cretonne, used with a deep blue rug, some pieces of old, beautifully polished mahogany, and lamp shades of deep blue patterned silk.

These shades are merely squares of silk, bordered with narrow black braid, and a black silk tassel swings from each corner of the square, when it is thrown over the foundation shade which is of orange-colored cotton. The orange does not show by day, but gives a soft glow through the thin blue silk cover when the lamp is lighted.

All Wind.

Henry Watterson, the famous editor, was talking about politicians. "Take the wind, the gulf, out of a politician," he said, "and what remains?"

"A noted politician's wife was listening to her husband over the telephone. Five ten, fifteen minutes she listened patiently. Then she said:

"Excuse me, Charles. Just a moment. I want to change the record over to the other ear. This one's so dead."
